

Career Launcher organized a first-of-its kind workshop on “AI & ML and redefining the Education scenario in India”

New Delhi, February 14, 2019: Career Launcher, India’s leading test-prep organization & a division of CL Educate Ltd, is organized a first-of-its kind workshop on the subject of “Artificial Intelligence and Machine Learning redefining the Education scenario in India” on February 9, 2019. The event was specially been designed for influential thought leaders, school principals and subject teachers, who are a very important stakeholder group in higher education in the country.

This workshop involved a training program for higher education institutions such as colleges, Universities, etc. The training session will be conducted by industry practitioners of AI & ML.

Speaking on the occasion, Mr. Satya Narayanan R, Chairman and Executive Director of CL Educate said, “It is imperative that education authorities of our country more than nudge the upcoming generation towards cutting-edge futuristic technology domains – AI-ML, Data Sciences, Artificial Neural Network and likewise. Their efforts, in doing so, will give India an unbeatable advantage and a significant leverage of the demographic dividend India currently enjoys. To that end, we are delighted to organize this workshop, which will support our educational system move forward with a renewed vigour & a serious sense of purpose.”

This program was attended by renowned schools like St. Columbus, St. Froebel, Shiv Nadar, Tagore International, GD Goenka, Delhi Public School, Manav Rachna International and Bluebells to name a few.

One of the panel members conducting the workshop, Mr. Sujit Bhattacharyya, Chief Innovation Officer at CL Educate said, “My personal journey of learning about AI and ML started a couple of years back. That was the time when, almost with unfailing regularity, I would be called into our conference room to meet a hot new ed-tech who had an AI driven product to offer. ML today has become far more accessible and easier to learn. I am convinced that data science is not the preserve of the PhDs from Stanford alone. Our aim through this conference would be to demystify ML at an elemental level and start imagining solutions with a completely new perspective.”

Sharing the feedback on the workshop, Ms. Himani Jain - Examination Incharge, St. Columbas School said “We had a very inspiring, interactive and to the context two hours session today, focusing on Artificial Intelligence and Machine Learning. What I felt after attending this workshop is that we as Educators need to own AI and ML in our educational space. This would help us give full justice to the young generations under our care.”

Dr. Ragini Kaul, Principal St. Froebel, also shared her views, said “Today’s program was an initiative towards empowering leaders, who are heads of affairs and held responsible to give back to the society what they receive. The speakers of today’s session discussed issues like ML and AI because we know that they are gradually taking over the curriculums in schools as there is no way out. I wish Career Launcher engages themselves in more such programs and gather all the like-minded people and collaborate with them so that we are not depriving our students of the best.”

It is pertinent to note that CBSE is planning to introduce Artificial Intelligence as part of the curriculum in schools from Class-8 and upwards. Hence this effort will go a long way in helping all the stakeholders in education – students, schools, boards and parents – come up to speed with the changing times.
